SLAIN GANGLAND CHIEFTAIN—A doctor bends over body of underworld boss Albert Anastasia alongside the midtown hotel's barber shop chair where he was sitting when two masked men shot and killed him in New York Oct. 25. Anastasia, one of gangland's top figures for many years, was reputed to be the chief executioner of the former Brooklyn kill-for-pay ring, Murder, Inc. (AP Wirephoto)

Officials Hint Hired Killers Slew Mobster

NEW YORK (AP)—Police called in a stream of underworld characters today in a search for clues to the killing of bigshot mobster Albert Anastasia, rubbed out by two gunmen in a plush barber-shop of a Manhattan hotel.

Anastasia, 55, boss of the Old Murder, Inc., syndicate, who assertedly fingered dozens of victims himself, was riddled with five bullets by two masked gunmen as he sat in a barber chair yesterday morning.

Made Subway Escape

After pumping shots in Anastasia's head, back, hip and hand the assassins each wearing a glove on his trigger hand slipped quietly from the shop and apparently escaped by subway.

One of the death guns was found just outside the barbershop, the other in a pile of trash that came from a trash basket near the 53rd Street entrance of the BMT subway station. This entrance adjoins the 32-story Park Sheraton hotel, where the slaying took place.

A hundred detectives were assigned to search for Anastasia's murderers—and the motive behind the killing.

One ranking police official, who asked not to be identified, said Anastasia "was taking over the mob" and that professional gunmen were brought in by a rival group to thwart that ambition.

Knew Job Well

A police spokesman said of the gunmen: "They knew their job well, it was obviously a professional job and they didn't want to have any blundering as they did in the Costello shooting."

He was referring to the wounding of gambler Frank Costello, whose skull was nicked with a bullet last May 2 as he entered the foyer of his Central Park West apartment home.

Police officials said last night "we're going to talk to anybody who think will throw light on this case. You can assume that all witnesses (to the Anastasia shooting) are being protected."

Among those questioned last night and early today was Anthony Coppola, 49, Anastasia's bodyguard and chauffeur. Coppola said he was at his home in Fairview, N. J., when he learned Anastasia was killed.

50 Are Quizzed

There was no explanation of why the bodyguard was not with Anastasia during the morning.

Up to midnight last night at least 50 other persons had been questioned by police.

Anastasia came from a family of nine brothers and three sisters. Three brothers, like Anastasia, have been involved with the police. Another, Salvatore, 36, is a parish priest in The Bronx.

The brothers Anastasia were born in Tropea, a little fishing village on the tip of southern Italy.

The slaying was big news in Italy, home of many deported American gangsters. Some newspapers gave it more attention than conclusion of talks in Washington between President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of Britain.

Market Even After Hectic 5-Day Period

NEW YORK (AP)—The Stock Market was all-even by the end of this week after one of the most hectic five-day periods in history.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks closed at $156.70, unchanged from the week before.

But volume soared to 20,804,199 shares, the highest total since the first week after President Eisenhower's heart attack.

One of Worst Dives

Outstanding highlights of the week were two days, Monday and Wednesday. On Monday, stocks took their worst dive since Sept. 26, 1955, the first trading session after the Eisenhower heart attack.

On Wednesday, the market made its biggest one-day advance since Nov. 14, 1929. The latter was a day of temporary recovery following the blackest days of the '29 crash.

This was a climactic week in the long decline, now well into its fourth month, since the market reached its 1957 high on July 12.

There was no special news to send the market plummeting on Monday but rather an accumulation of the same kind of doubtful news about business and the economy in general.

There were further reports of cutbacks, "stretch-outs" and layoffs which underlined Wall Street's concern about tight money. The steel industry's operating rate slipped below 80 per cent of capacity.

Stock prices, already relatively low for new investors or short-term traders, began to slip. Selling began more selling. Despite the high margin requirements for stock purchases, brokerage houses began sending out calls for more margin. In distress cases, this margin was not forthcoming and these "weak accounts" were cleaned out.

On Tuesday a vigorous early rally washed-out by afternoon and

Ave Won't Debate on Convention Mahoney Would Clear Confusion

ALBANY (AP)—Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney today challenged Gov. Harriman to a statewide radio-television debate on whether a constitutional convention should be held. Harriman promptly refused.

Mahoney, an outspoken foe of the convention plan, said the only way that "confusion" over the issue could be cleared up was through public discussion.

The Republican lawmaker declared that he and others in the Senate's GOP majority viewed a convention as "extremely costly and unnecessary."

Urges Study Method

The proper way to amend the Constitution, said Mahoney, is through "orderly" study and examination "rather than through the shotgun approach of a convention."

Harriman's press secretary, Charles Van Devander, replied: "Gov. Harriman has clearly and repeatedly stated his reasons for believing that a constitutional convention is desirable and he will continue to do so."

"If he debated with Sen. Mahoney, he might have to give equal time to all the other Republican candidates for governor."

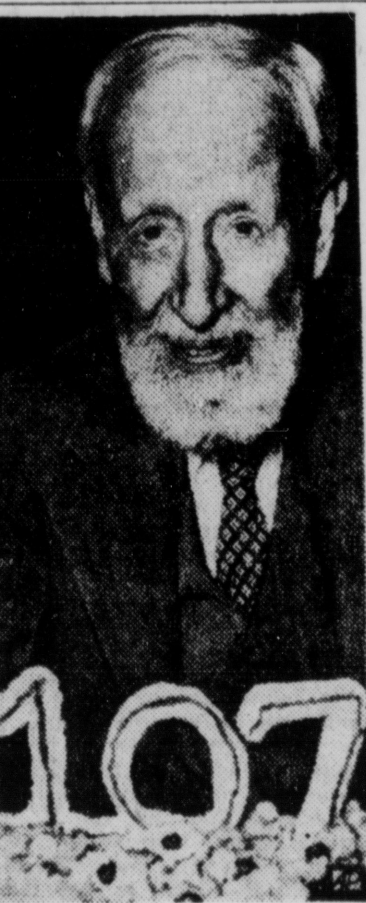

Challenge After Meeting

Mahoney, considered a potential candidate, issued his challenge after a two-day, pre-election meeting of the Senate Republican majority.

The GOP senators adopted a resolution yesterday urging voters to reject the convention plan on the Nov. 5 ballot.

The question appears by require-

Trailways to Dig Well Near Garage For Bus Washing

One local concern has contracted with a well digger to have its own water supply during the present emergency.

Raymond Reilly, general superintendent, said today that Adirondack Trailways would drill for water on a section of its property at 495 Broadway.

He advised that John J. Van Gonsic, president of the bus concern, had engaged James H. Stoutenburg, Glenford well driller for the job.

Conserving Now

Up until the present, Reilly said, there has been a conservation plan in operation at the Trailways garage in compliance with the city's plea to save water.

"We thoroughly understand the problem of the water department," Reilly said, "and desire to do everything we can to help while the shortage exists."

Since the request went out for all citizens and firms to save water, the Trailways garage has cut down on washing buses, according to Reilly.

"We just washed the fronts and back ends of the vehicles,"

To Discuss Plans About Jobs for The Handicapped

Community leaders from Kingston and Ulster County interested in coordinating services for rehabilitation of the physically handicapped will meet at the George Washington school at 8:30 p. m., on Monday.

To Hear Consultant

Miss Hazel M. Steed, executive secretary of the Ulster County TB and Health Association, in announcing the meeting said, that information about community programs in rehabilitation in other areas of New York State will be given by Miss Eleanor Green, the rehabilitation consultant with the New York State Committee on Tuberculosis and Public Health. Miss Green has wide experience in the field and is in contact with rehabilitation program planning throughout New York State, according to Miss Steed.

Miss Steed said this meeting has grown out of discussions the TB and Health Association held

Make-up Sessions Considered City Schools to Open Monday on Test Basis

Practically all schools in Kingston and Ulster County now closed due to high rates of absenteeism are expected to open Monday, it is reported.

They will open to test the situation and see how the rate of absenteeism has increased or declined, basing their decisions on Monday's attendance.

An Associated Press story from Albany today said that harried school officials throughout the state, viewing their schedules in disarray because of absenteeism caused by flu, are considering make-up sessions.

A number of schools in the Kingston area, both public and parochial, closed earlier this week. Friday was a general school holiday because of teachers' conferences.

One Death in County

What appeared to be the first local death arising from Asian flu was reported to the Ulster County Health Department this week.

He is a 45-year-old male resident of the north-central part of the county who died Wednesday of pneumonia complications following flu.

Vaccine Advised for Ill

Investigation of the fatality disclosed that the man had a cardiac condition for which he had been hospitalized. Dr. Dudley Hargrave, Ulster county health commissioner, caused an investigation to be made and reported subsequently that death was due to pneumonia following flu.

It is reported that persons suffering from cardiac conditions, those chronically ill or elderly persons should receive flu vaccine as soon as available.

The Albany story from AP about considered school make-up sessions said:

The flu outbreak in New York State has taken 125 lives since it began in July. Most of the deaths have occurred this month.

Thousands of children have missed classes while they lay abed with fever as a result of the Asian flu and related illnesses.

The State Education Department said yesterday decisions on make-up sessions rested with local school boards. However, the department said the many queries it had received showed that such sessions were being considered.

Sophomore Dies

Reported today was the death yesterday in Cornell University Hospital of Miss Joan Marcia Levine, 19, a Cornell University sophomore. Cause of death was given as pneumonia following the Asian flu.

Three new deaths were reported yesterday in Plattsburgh and one in Albany.

Dr. LaVerne E. Campbell, Clinton County health officer, reported the deaths during the last week of Vernon R. Reid, 31, and Charles Barry, 69, both of Plattsburgh, and Cynthia Ann Belrose, two months, of Chazy. Campbell said all three deaths had resulted from flu.

Dr. John J. Powers, Albany health commissioner, reported the death of a 60-year-old Albany man. He did not identify him.

CONVICTED—Russian Col. Rudolf I. Abel, accused of transmitting U. S. military and atomic secrets to Moscow, was found guilty Friday in a Brooklyn federal court. As a result of his conviction, he faces a possible death penalty. (AP Wirephoto)

Convicted Spy Is Facing Possible Death Sentence

NEW YORK (AP)—Rudolf I. Abel, found guilty of conspiracy to steal United States' military and atomic secrets for the Soviet Union, faces a possible death sentence.

The 55-year-old one-time colonel in the Soviet secret police was found guilty by a jury of nine men and three women on all three counts of an indictment yesterday. The jury deliberated three hours and 35 minutes.

Sets Nov. 15 Date

Federal Judge Mortimer W. Byers set Nov. 15 for sentencing. Byers told the jury in Brooklyn federal court after the verdict was announced: "If I had been on the jury, I would have done the same thing."

Abel was the first foreign national to be tried for espionage in peacetime by a civilian court in the United States.

Shortly after the verdict, the Army announced in Washington that M. Sgt. Roy Rhodes, a key witness for the government, had been confined to the stockade at Ft. Belvoir, Va., "pending a final decision on the prefelement of charges."

Rhodes had testified during Abel's nine-day trial that he had sold military information to Soviet nationals while he was assigned to Moscow.

Will Make Appeal

James B. Donovan, court-appointed chief defense counsel, said he would appeal the Abel decision.

Married and the father of a married daughter, Abel gave up his family in devotion to his cause. A veteran espionage agent for the Soviet Union, he slipped into this country illegally from Canada in 1948.

For nine years he maintained a photographic studio in Brooklyn while he ferreted out national defense data for the Kremlin.

FBI agents testified that Abel's studio was equipped with short-wave receivers capable of getting radio messages from Moscow.

Abel did not testify in his own behalf. No witness was produced by his lawyers.

After the trial Abel was taken to the Federal House of Detention in Manhattan to await sentencing.

Revision Of Defense Main Goal Will Move to Meet Soviet Challenge

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower is planning to go to Paris in December for what likely will be a NATO summit meeting aimed at revision of western defense systems to meet Russia's stepped-up challenge.

U. S. Ambassador Amory Houghton gave that word to the French government in Paris today. This provided official confirmation to widespread diplomatic reports here yesterday that Eisenhower would make such a trip.

Macmillan Going

Houghton told Christian Pineau, foreign minister in France's outgoing government, that Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan intend to attend the December meeting of the council of NATO—the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

A statement issued by Eisenhower and Macmillan yesterday at the conclusion of three days of talks here contained a hint that the council meeting might be converted into a summit session—one attended by heads of government.

The NATO council meeting scheduled for December normally would bring together the foreign ministers of the 15 member nations.

Plans for a summit meeting still were being formulated, but it seemed obvious that it would be diplomatically difficult for Eisenhower to consult with persons of lower rank—foreign ministers or ambassadors.

Mao to Visit Moscow

Another planned trip was announced today: Mao Tze-Tung, leader of Red China, said he had accepted a Soviet invitation to attend the 40th anniversary celebration next month in Moscow of the revolution that brought the Communists to power in Russia.

In a joint statement yesterday, the U. S. and British leaders sounded a call for action to reinforce allies all over the world "with the deterrent and retaliatory power of nuclear weapons."

The words were contained in a 1,500-word "declaration of common purpose" issued at the end of their strategy talks.

Eisenhower last visited Europe in 1953. He went to Geneva then for a summit conference with the premiers of Britain, Russia and France.

May See Queen

British newspapers predicted he would stop off, on any European trip in December, to visit Queen Elizabeth II in London. On her visit at the White House last week, the Queen was reported to have sounded out Eisenhower on the possibility of a trip to England.

Reliable sources in Ottawa said Prime Minister John Diefenbaker of Canada would be in Paris for the NATO meeting and diplomatic informants in Bonn said Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany also could be expected to make the trip.

Officials interpreted the major decisions made by Eisenhower and Macmillan as signalling a new start on allied security. They said such a new start was needed because present systems have become obsolete in the wake of new weapons developed by both east and west.

May Amend Act

As part of the over-all program, the communice disclosed, Eisenhower told Macmillan he would ask Congress to amend the U. S.

$51,806 Now Pledged In Chest Drive

The Red Feather campaign has reached $51,806.85 in its drive toward a goal of $118,500, it was reported today by John R. Warren, executive director of the Kingston Area Community Chest.

Warren broke down the total as follows:

Advance gift, $13,731; industry, $21,905; commercial, $10,589; professional, $4,154; government, $205; schools, $1,216, and neighborhood, $5.

The "neighborhood" team of some 350 canvassers took the field last night in a house-to-house drive.

To Continue Canvass

The canvass will continue next week with captains submitting initial reports by Tuesday or Wednesday.

Peter J. Kowalenko is chairman of the "neighborhood" division of the Chest drive in behalf of its 10 member agencies.

Purpose of neighborhood solicitations is chiefly for the purpose of contacting those who work for individuals or small firms, persons who work at home and others not otherwise contacted who wish to participate.

Persons who have contributed through their places of employment or by other means prior to the neighborhood canvass have been issued window stickers to display as an indication to solicitors. It was explained that in some cases a solicitor may call to see if anyone else at a particular address wishes to contribute.

Newburgh Man Is Grenade Victim in Viet Nam Mishap

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—U. S. Army Capt. Harry G. Cramer, 31, of Newburgh, N. Y., was killed in a military training accident near Nhang, central Viet Nam, it was announced yesterday.

Capt. Cramer, on temporary duty here from Okinawa, died of wounds caused when a grenade exploded in the hands of a Vietnamese officer who was about to throw it. The Vietnamese also was killed.

Cramer's widow and three children live at Ft. Buckner, Okinawa.

Lodge Hits Red 'War Scare'

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Support grew in the United Nations today for a move to have Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold try personal talks to settle the Middle East crisis.

A general assembly debate on the crisis was recessed last night until Monday after U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge accused the Soviet Union of raising an "artificial war scare" in the Middle East. Lodge said the crisis was designed by the Kremlin to convert Arab nations into Soviet satellites.

In Cairo, meanwhile King Saud of Saudi Arabia was being bitterly accused in private conversations of "acting like an American stooge" by offering to mediate the Turkish-Syrian crisis.

The offer threatens to drive a final wedge between the Arabian monarch and the Syrian-Egyptian front.

Leaders of the anti-western front believe Saud is being used as a tool by the Americans to save Turkey from "exposure" in the U. N. General Assembly of allegedly aggressive intentions.

As far as we are concerned, this mediation offer finishes Saud, an Egyptian close to the government told a newsmen today. "Saud is acting like an American stooge."

'58 Business Dip May Boost Jobless, Curb Living Costs, Delay Tax Cuts

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Weeks has been advised that an expected dip in business activity early next year should curb the rise in living costs, but may increase unemployment and delay tax reductions.

The Advisory Council, whose membership includes the heads of more than 100 of the country's largest corporations, predicted the business dip will be far less severe than the minor post-Korea recession of 1953-1954.

It will end "some time in 1958," but probably not before midyear, Weeks was told.

The appraisal was presented behind closed doors at the autumn meeting of the council, attended by the chairman of President Eisenhower's Council of Economic Advisers, Dr. Raymond J. Saulnier, and by other government officials.

If industry increases its output per man-hour only slightly in months just ahead, the group was told, unemployment may increase "by several hundred thousand."

A larger gain in productivity would mean "substantially more" joblessness, the BAC said.

The possibility that tax relief may be pushed farther into the future was mentioned when Weeks was reminded by newsmen that there are stronger pressures in Congress to speed U. S. scientific and weapons development to counter Soviet gains in the missiles and satellites field.

Weeks did not acknowledge that the administration might endorse bigger outlays on the satellite missile program, but he indicated he considered larger appropriations possible—at a time when federal revenues are slowing up.

"The prospects for tax reduction," Weeks said, "are not what they might have been a few months ago."

MUST WE GO TO CHURCH
TO BE CHRISTIANS?

You've probably heard people comment at times on the fact that their Catholic neighbors go to church so often. Perhaps you have wondered yourself... is all this necessary?

Catholics, you may be sure, have good reasons.

Going to Mass on Sunday is, of course, an obligation for every Catholic. Confession and Holy Communion at least once a year are a sacred duty. But most Catholics go to Confession and receive Holy Communion often... some every month, some every week, some every day.

There are also many other special services and devotions for which Catholics go to church. In the average city, the Catholic Church is always open—and seldom empty. Many will enter the church at any hour of the day to visit Jesus Christ present on the altar, mindful of His invitation: "Come to Me, all you who labor and are burdened, and I will give you rest."

Catholics believe that Christ not only called upon us to honor and serve God... but prescribed the ways in which we should do so. He did not say how often we must go to church... nor how many prayers we were to recite. But He did establish a Church with the power and authority to carry on His work... and He promised that His Church would last to the end of time—that it would have God's protection in teaching all men to observe all things He had commanded, especially to believe and to be baptized and thereby become members of His Church to attain the purpose of their lives.

And how do Catholics know theirs is Christ's Church?

WHY TO THE MOON?

Some much needed and sobering words have come from Sir Harold Spencer Jones, former astronomer royal of Great Britain. Writing in New Scientist, Sir Harold says that despite Russia's success with a satellite it will be generations before man can reach the moon. In his opinion, space travel in manned vehicles to other planets of the solar system never will be possible.

Without attempting to pass on the validity of this noted scientist's conclusions, it is worth noting that this is a dash of cold water on some of the wild speculations that have been made as a result of Sputnik. It is high time that we took some new, sharp bearings on where we are headed, what we hope to attain, in science.

Suppose we do reach the moon. Suppose we are able to launch a space ship to Venus or Mars. What do we hope to accomplish there? To what end? What is the ultimate purpose? These are the really important questions. Given man's demonstrated ingenuity, we probably can do all manner of tricks with science. But what we really need to do is examine our motives for such behavior.

For almost 200 years now, the human race has been beguiled by science. Its accomplishments have surpassed the wildest guesses of the soothsayers of old. We should be grateful for its wonders, but this gratitude should not blind us to the necessity for moral decisions. And these are outside the realm of science.

MOVING TOWARD UNITY

Though it did not make many front pages, the recent news from Rome may matter far more than some items which did. The Italian parliament has just ratified the two pending treaties for a European community.

These treaties are meant as a basis for a united Europe. One establishes a common European market for the 160,000,000 people of western Europe, comparable to the free trade between our 48 states which has done so much to build up our prosperity. The other sets up an international agency called Euratom, for developing peaceful uses of nuclear power.

These are two long steps toward a common European government. They have now been taken by the three largest western European states, France, West Germany and now Italy. Remaining are only three lesser nations, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg. All three have begun ratification processes.

Already the coal and steel of western Europe are managed by a common authority, the so-called Coal and Steel Community. This and the later developments show that business will accept some control by an international authority. The eventual results will greatly benefit the varied peoples of Europe.

OUTER SPACE ADS

One way to head off a depression, we often hear, is to develop a new major industry. The automobile is the most noted example. What new line is in prospect that might head off the next business setback?

In Detroit, where they habitually anticipate new developments, an answer has been suggested. With the spectacular Russian satellite roaming the skies, it is not surprising that the Junior Advertising Club of Detroit is planning to study advertising in outer space.

The possibilities seen by the club are horrifying. Among them are signs large enough to tell the whole solar system that the Super-Whizbomb gives more miles to the gallon than any other form of plane. Sky writing, already familiar at great outdoor gatherings like football games, might be made visible for thousands of miles. And our ears might be deafened by super-commercials.

No wonder that the Detroit Club think a code of ethics highly advisable. If it can

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY
HELPING THE TAX AVOIDER

The International Industrial Development Conference which took place in San Francisco was some kind of a trade promotion-export capital scheme designed by Time-Life International, a couple of magazines, and by the Stanford Research Institute which is described as a private consulting organization. It is said that as many as 500 industrialists attended this meeting. Early announcements indicated that the former Nazi munitions-maker, Krupp, would attend, but thus far I have not seen his name.

The most important speech was that delivered by Vice President Richard Nixon who dealt with many subjects until he came to page eight of the mimeographed copy in which he reached something that seems most unusual for him, namely, the utilization of American private capital in foreign countries, particularly such as are tax havens. I quote a paragraph which requires considerable interpretation and study if it is a new fiscal policy:

"The Congress should also consider the feasibility of passing a tax reform similar to one adopted by the United Kingdom a few months ago. This would defer U. S. taxes on income and profits earned entirely abroad until they are actually paid in dividends to the stockholders or the parent company. It would give American overseas traders and investors the same encouragement some of them now seek by incorporating abroad. It would immediately increase the funds available to such companies for additional foreign investment, yet in the long run the U. S. Treasury and foreign treasuries would also gain by the tax on income from a larger investment base."

Great Britain can only sustain her economy on foreign trade. This is also true of Japan and of West Germany. They are required by their lack of raw materials, their population surplus, and their need to import raw materials and foodstuffs to engage heavily in foreign trade. To achieve this end, they encourage cartels, they subsidize industrial and commercial enterprises, they create tax havens, and they orient their foreign policy toward benefiting foreign trade.

Is the same true about the United States? There is no evidence to that effect. The evidence shows that our foreign trade, apart from government subsidized exports of goods and money, amounts to a very small fraction of our national income. Of course, there are some companies, since the beginning of World War II, which have benefited from foreign trade, but none of these industries have done as much in the foreign as in the domestic field.

What Vice President Nixon proposes is that American capital, exported abroad and remaining abroad as to principal and profit, should not be taxed by the United States, until the profits are brought back to this country. This idea could stimulate foreign trade; it could also stimulate a flight of capital to a tax haven.

I find nothing in the speech which protects the United States from such a flight of capital to a tax haven or which protects the American who stays at home and invests his money and labor in the United States and who pays his taxes honestly and regularly. Actually, this exported American capital could be used as unfair competition against the tax-paying American and against highly-taxed and high-wages American labor. And the tax-haven operator would be safeguarded by such law as Vice President Nixon or whoever incubated this idea, proposes.

Also how does this affect the foreigner or tax-haven American who sets up outside of the United States with tax-free American dollars, manufactures goods which he imports into the United States but leaves the capital and the profits from such American sales abroad? Under this plan, he could undersell his own American company, eventually produce a tax loss here, but taking a profit in his foreign subsidiaries, and paying taxes nowhere or a very small tax. As a matter of fact, the American low-priced automobile is already outpacing in competition with imported automobiles made by American-owned companies abroad.

We are subsidizing the industrialization of many weak and backward and war-damaged countries. These subsidies come out of taxes. These countries are manufacturing goods at lower prices than we can manufacture them because their labor costs less, their taxes are lower, their money costs less, and they get direct government subsidies.

What are we going to do to protect our industries and our labor from this type of competition? If we do nothing, watch the lay-offs!

Air Pollution Studied as Likely Key to Varied Ills
BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.
Written for NEA Service

Recently I was kindly sent a thick book containing abstracts of hundreds of articles written about the effects of pollution of the atmosphere on the health of human beings. The growing volume of studies on pollution of the atmosphere reflects increasing concern by health authorities about the acute and possibly long-term effects of pollution of the air on the people who must live in it.

Deaths from acute atmospheric pollution with so-called smog have been reported from the Meuse Valley, Belgium, in 1930; Donora, Pa., in 1938, and in London, in December, 1952. It is believed that the smog in the Meuse Valley caused 60 deaths; in Donora, 20, and the four-day smog in London, 4,000 deaths.

IT IS THOUGHT that the harmful effect of smog is not the result of new contaminants in the atmosphere, but rather an increase of substances already present. Thus not only is there the release of these substances—principally by industrial plants and possibly automobiles—but also they fail to escape because of the development of a stable, quiet air, with what is known as temperature inversion.

The latter means that instead of the air cooling with altitude, it gets warmer for some distance and has the effect of putting a lid or ceiling on the atmosphere. Accordingly smoke, exhaust fumes and other products of industrial society are kept from escaping into the wide open spaces of the upper air.

WE CANNOT change our climate but there are preventive measures which can be employed. In this respect perhaps Pittsburgh has had the best record. Others are trying to do likewise.

There are interesting sidelights to the problem. It was reported that during the London fog, prize cattle in a show were badly affected but ordinary cattle in the same area were not. The prize animals were kept clean while the ordinary ones for slaughter stood in the familiar barnyard odor with fairly high concentrations of ammonia. It was assumed that the ammonia neutralized the sulphur dioxide gas and hence gave them protection the prize animals did not receive.

Besides studying the acute smog episodes, there is need to explore the possible effect of atmospheric pollution on such diseases as chronic bronchitis, sinusitis and cancer of the lung. Such investigations are underway.

Double-Barreled Shotgun

Washington News

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Heads may roll quietly at the British embassy for goofs on Queen Elizabeth's visit. British Ambassador Sir Harold Caccia is still steaming over being shunted far back on the seating lists and receiving lines during the visit because most of the other ambassadors from the Commonwealth countries outranked him in seniority. He thought he should be No. 1 among them because he is the Queen's No. 1 representative in Washington.

He's also irked because local socialites who entertained him were not included in the reception which he gave for the Queen Friday afternoon. It was too late to correct this oversight by the embassy staff when he discovered it.

Then there was the boo-boo pulled by the embassy social secretary, Yvonne Deuchar. She threw the town into a panic just before the visit by announcing that all guests at the Friday reception had to curtsy and wear formal afternoon dress. This "policy" statement was quickly reversed.

THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH quickly went into a huddle with his wife at a recent Washington reception when the master of ceremonies quoted Elizabeth as once saying, "I'd rather be my mother's daughter than be Queen."

A government official who claims to be a lip reader swears the startled Philip whispered: "Did you REALLY say that?"

INSIDE SOCIAL report from the Russian embassy is that they're finally going to take down the big picture of Stalin for the coming annual October

Revolution party. Rumor has it that the picture will be replaced by a model of Sputnik.

THERE ARE REPORTS at the Pentagon that new Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy, former boss of Procter & Gamble soap company, plans some wholesale firings around the buildings. "He's coming in with a policy of 'massive detergency,'" as one personnel man explains it.

GOV. LUIS MUNOZ MARIN of Puerto Rico got put on something of a "political box" at the World Series, Benno Schmidt of the J. H. Whitney organization offered the governor the use of his box with this warning:

"You will be in the box to the left of Democratic Gov. Averell Harriman of New York, but you will also be to the right of Republican ex-President Herbert Hoover."

Neither of them showed up, however, and Governor Munoz enjoyed the series like the baseball fan he is, without getting it all mixed up with politics.

AT THE DEMOCRATIC National Committee they're referring to the White House as "The Tomb of the Best-Known Soldier."

COUNSELOR JOE KU was so busy talking at a big Chinese embassy reception the other night that the fabulous buffet table was cleaned before he was finally realized he was as famished as a dragon.

But as Ku left the embassy to raid his own ice box at home, one of the waiters slipped him a large, brown paper bag of egg rolls which he had salvaged.

"The waiter probably had some Chinese proverb in mind when he performed this act of kindness," Ku says, "but he didn't tell me what it was."

VICE PRESIDENT Richard Nixon threw a going-away party

the other night for his assistant, Bob King, who is leaving to become director of the 1960 Winter Olympics.

When Nixon presented him with a pair of skis as a farewell present, Bob remarked, "This is an unusual present for an Alabama boy who didn't see snow until he was 21."

"I hope there's no indication that I'm a slippery character or on the skids," he added.

OTHER EVENING at the Pakistan embassy, somebody asked Deputy Undersecretary of State Loy Henderson how he managed to get about the world so quickly every time a crisis arose.

"I keep a bag packed, one suit pressed and a toothbrush in my pocket all the time just in case I'm in a real rush," he replied.

He took the toothbrush out of his pocket just to prove it.

Spotlighters to Give Play on Nov. 9

TILLSON — The Tillson Parent-Teachers Association will sponsor a 3-act play presented by the Spotlighters, on Saturday, November 9 at the Tillson school auditorium. The curtain will rise at 8:15 p. m. on the first of three hilarious acts.

"January Thaw" is a play about two families trying to live in the same old farmhouse; an elderly couple and a young couple. The various complications that arise, and who wins out in the final outcome, makes the play one that it not only humorous but really enjoyable.

Featured in the play are members of the Spotlighters, a drama group that organized after last year's play, "That's My Baby" was produced and proved highly successful. Those taking part in "January Thaw" include Nathaniel Phillips, Frank Chyzik, Hilda Messner, Helen Sutherland, Robert Messner, Walter Bond, Betty Phillips, Elaine Warren, Walter Warren, Thomas DePuy, Flossie Schultz, Barbara DeWitt and Robert Fox.

Tickets are now being sold by members of the P-T-A or may be purchased at the door the night of the play. The public is cordially invited to attend this benefit performance.

Report on Lights Due November 7

The regular monthly meeting of the Tillson Civic Association was held at the Tillson firehall Thursday night.

President George Brown reported that he and a number of members attended the last town board meeting in Rosendale, and requested information regarding the possibility of lights along Route 32, which has been designated as a speed zone by the state, and considered a dangerous highway by some officials. The board, which will make a complete investigation of dangerous intersections or stretches of highway within the township of Rosendale, advised that a report on the lighting situation will be ready about Nov. 7.

The members requested more data about a water district. It was pointed out that a committee made a lengthy study of this about two years ago, and the only solution they derived at was the fact the cost of operation of such a water district, or its installation, was way beyond the means of the taxpayers in the area involved. However, President Brown told the members that if sufficient interest was shown, the civic association

More Witnesses To Be Quizzed at Armory Next Week

Interviews are to continue through next week at the local state armory in the investigation to determine whether a full-scale probe of the Kingston Police Department is necessary. The staff of Acting State Investigator Arthur L. Reuter, which opened the local office this week, has already talked with some witnesses, including city officials.

Although the investigating force has not officially said so, it is understood that some witnesses are being queried away from the armory.

Officials who appeared on invitation have been Mayor Frederick H. Stang, Chief of Police Raymond VanBuren, Deputy Chief Robert F. Murphy and County Investigator Arthur H. Brown.

The investigation procedure is like that of a grand jury where witnesses are under oath, so they can't reveal any information outside the office of Col. Frank W. Harkin, commanding officer of the 156th Field Artillery Battalion, New York National Guard.

It is so arranged at the armory that one witness does not see another, and all are afforded immunity from public announcement of their names as promised by Reuter.

Reports Hit-run Car

Frances Prendergast of Lake Katrine reported to city police at 8 p. m. Friday that she was driving her car south on Broadway near the YMCA when a car came out of Rupp's driveway suddenly and struck her vehicle in the right front fender. After the collision, the other car, reportedly operated by a young man with a girl of about the same age riding with him, continued without stopping. She was unable to get the license number, she told police.

Court Won't Act

WASHINGTON (AP)—The World Court has refused to intervene at this time in a dispute over ownership of the giant Interhandel Corp., the State Department was notified yesterday.

The department said the court in The Hague voted 14-1 Thursday, with only the Russian member dissenting, against immediate action.

Warren Hutt contributed towards the cost of the insurance and all the mothers donated refreshments.

The entire undertaking was in charge of Mrs. Kermit Schwarz, president of the Woodstock P.T.A.

Pleads Innocent

To Forgery Count

In Dutchess Case

POUGHKEEPSIE (AP)—William L. Juliano, 48, former city public works department clerk, pleaded innocent in county court Friday to larceny and forgery charges involving $5,025 in city funds.

An indictment returned Tuesday charges him with appropriating the money for his own use by cashing payroll checks made out to fictitious persons during the period February 1956 through September 1957.

His $5,000 bail was continued and Nov. 19 was set for hearing motions in the case. No trial date was set.

Teamsters Put Off

Milk Strike Again

NEW YORK (AP)—Five Teamsters Union locals have postponed for a second time a threatened milk strike in the metropolitan New York City area.

Negotiators for the unions and 150 companies, meeting here yesterday, announced the strike deadline has been extended from Monday until 4 p. m. Tuesday.

A strike would cut off milk deliveries to some 14 million people in the area. The strike was first set for 4 p. m. last Thursday.

The union is seeking pay increases and other benefits.

The consumer areas involved are New York, Westchester, Long Island, Rockland, northern New Jersey and part of Fairfield County, Conn.

Albany Medical College

Creates Science Award

ALBANY (AP)—Albany Medical College announced today the creation of annual lectureship award honoring Americans who have made outstanding contributions in the fields of science, medicine and teaching.

First to receive the award will be Dr. William Mansfield Clark, one of the nation's foremost biochemists, to whom the college will pay tribute October 29. The award will be known as the Albany Medical College Honorary Lectureship Award, and it will be given in recognition of "distinguished service to humanity."

Urges Fund Release

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Justice N. B. Johnson of the Oklahoma Supreme Court yesterday asked that President Eisenhower release frozen funds to build Indian hospitals.

Johnson said money for four Indian hospitals were frozen as an anti-inflation measure. He said the hospitals are badly needed at Sell, Aiz, Gallup and Shiprock, N. M. and in Alaska.

Johnson heads the resolution committee at the governor's interstate Indian Council which is meeting here. The council passed a resolution asking that the funds be released.

Two Unions Must Clean House or Face Suspension

WASHINGTON (AP)—The AFL-CIO has ordered two labor unions—the United Textile Workers and the Bakery Workers—to oust officials accused of corruption or face suspension from the federation.

The two unions were told they will be automatically suspended unless they agree, by Nov. 15, to remove the allegedly corrupt officials and arrange conventions to elect new officers.

The AFL-CIO executive council's action yesterday followed by one day its suspension of the 1½-million-member Teamsters Union. The council suspended the teamsters until President-elect James R. Hoffa and other officials charged with corruption were removed.

AFL-CIO President George Meany said that all three unions are liable to expulsion at the federation's December convention unless they carry out the council's orders. Testimony before the Senate subcommittee investigating charges against various leaders of the Teamsters, the UTW and the Bakers.

In New York, meanwhile, twenty Teamsters locals organized an anti-Hoffa coalition.

Their objective is to keep the giant Teamster Union in the AFL-CIO.

The group was formed yesterday. It is the first organized opposition in the union against the rule of Hoffa.

The movement is headed by John Strong, president of powerful New York Local 807.

Market Even

prices slid off moderately, but it was a turbulent session with trading volume up to 5,080,000 shares, a two-year daily record. There was some buying by "bargain hunters" and additional clearing of weakly held stock.

President Eisenhower's speech that night in which he bade Americans banish "morbid pessimism" and announced his intention of making a series of affirmative speeches on the nation's economy, defense and scientific achievements was generally regarded as the turning point.

The Wednesday advance, greatest since '29, brought an estimated rise of $7,200,000 in the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

To Discuss Plans

about services for the tuberculous and the cardiac patient. It was evident that through coordinated services, all handicapped persons of Ulster County would benefit.

Objectives Listed

A tentative list of objectives for such a program have been outlined as follows:

1. To provide for the exchange of information and pooling of available knowledge and services offered by county agencies.
2. Promote close working relationship and cooperation between Health and Welfare agencies—voluntary and official—and groups dealing with any phase of rehabilitation.
3. Promote understanding between agencies and industry—regarding services of agencies and requirements of industry in employing the handicapped.
4. Promote better understanding of capabilities of the physically handicapped and conversely the problems of industry in employing the handicapped.
5. Promote increase of job opportunities for the physically handicapped.
6. Educate people of the community and interpret to the public the need to integrate the physically handicapped in community living.
7. Explore employment and training possibilities—full or part time—for individuals.
8. Make services available to all handicapped people.
9. Cooperation in exploring the need for a sheltered workshop or rehabilitation center.

This list of objectives was developed for the purpose of an outline for study and discussion.

ment of the Constitution itself. If the voters approve, delegates will be elected from opposing political slates next year and the convention held in 1959.

Democrats Want Seats

Democrats hope the convention would reappoint the Republican-controlled Legislature so as to give more seats to Democratic-controlled urban areas, principally New York City.

Mahoney and other top Republicans maintain the Democrats seek to place the city in domination over the rest of the state.

Mahoney said the two-day conference made "much progress" in shaping the GOP legislative program for 1958.

He reported that the senators endorsed his and Heck's plan for helping school districts obtain lower interest rates on their construction bonds by putting the state's credit behind the bonds.

Harriman has been pushing a plan that calls for creation of a state authority to pool and sell districts' bonds.

At the windup session yesterday the GOP senators adopted a resolution pledging to "hold the line" in 1958 against what they called the "tax-and-spend" philosophy of the Harriman administration.

Seeks 'Copter In Search of Girl Elephant

CATSKILL (AP)—Showman George Hamid sought today to hire a helicopter to aid in the search for Siam, his adolescent girl elephant who fled a farm near here 10 days ago.

Hamid cautioned hunters not to take any pot shots at her. "You can't kill an elephant that way," he said. "But you can start it on a rampage. It will charge anybody or anything in its path."

Siam is well trained and gentle. Hamid said, but she apparently has discovered primitive instincts since she obtained her freedom.

She was frightened by galloping horses while being watered Oct. 16 at a farm where she was spending the winter.

Boys Club Slates Halloween Party

Kingston Boys' Club will have a Halloween party for members Wednesday starting at 6:30 p. m. at the clubhouse. Rooms at the clubhouse will be decorated and rearranged for the occasion.

A "Ghost-Walk" will be the main feature of the program and will be followed with typical Halloween games and stunts. Refreshments and a full length movie will close the program.

Older members making the plans for the party are: Roy Havens, William Weaver, Walter Daw, John Duffner, Vincent Bitonte, and Anthony Erena.

The 'Houston,' A House That Has Little Waste Space

Rooms Six
 Bedrooms Three
 Closets Nine
 Cubage 34,824 ft.
 Dimensions 57 1/2' by 37'

The Home of the Week Plan Service today features the "Houston," a six-room house that makes every square foot of space work for the family.

Skillful planning has provided this house with a large number of rooms, each generously proportioned and an unusually large number of closets for a total of nine.

And although large-sized rooms are provided, the tight planning allowed for two full bathrooms. One of these units adjoins the master bedroom to provide a welcome private bathroom for the senior members of the family.

Center Foyer

The protected front entrance opens into a vestibule where a double-size guest closet is located. This vestibule extends back to a main cross hall from which open the other rooms of the "Houston," although the living room is also entered directly from the center foyer.

The living room, at the front-center of the house, is 22 feet long by 14 feet, eight inches wide.

Directly opposite the entrance to the room from the foyer is a modern fireplace open on two sides. Located as it is, the unit provides visitors with a pleasant first impression which is further heightened through the use of a planter between the living room and the "Houston's" main cross hall.

Dual-use Room

One of the "Houston's" three bedrooms can serve a double purpose depending on the needs of the owner. It could serve only as a bedroom, only as a den, or perhaps most successfully as a den-guest bedroom. Furnishings could easily make the room serve such a dual purpose.

Its generous dimensions, 12 feet by 13 feet, allow variable use.

The dining room, measuring 11 feet by 12 feet, is next to the dual purpose room and adjoins the kitchen.

Well Planned Kitchen

The kitchen of the "Houston" is well planned and the arrangement of the work area allows an out-of-the-way corner within the room where a breakfast set can be located.

The work area is generally a straight line layout with the range, sink and most of the counters and cabinets along the rear wall. The only exception to this arrangement is the refrigerator which would best be located against the opposite wall across from the sink and range.

Here's How To Protect Your Pliers

You can keep your pliers in top working condition by observing a few basic rules, according to the Council of Hardware Manufacturers. The rules are:

Don't overload them. This is probably the commonest mistake home craftsmen make. Pliers jaws twist out of line easily if you apply too much pressure. Small pliers should be used to cut or bend light material only. For bigger jobs, use pliers with larger jaws and longer handles that provide greater leverage.

Never expose pliers to extreme heat. If you use them to hold objects you are heating with a blow-torch, be careful that the heat is not transmitted to the pliers. Insulation between the pliers and the object you are heating may be helpful.

Pliers are not hammers. Succumb to the temptation to use their flat sides to hammer nails, and you may easily throw the jaws out of whack.

Don't use pliers on live electrical wires! Pliers with insulated handles are available if it is ever necessary to work on wires through which live current is flowing.

In using cutting pliers, place the work far back into the jaws. This increases the cutting power and lessens the danger of twisting the jaws.

Avoid Messy Task

If you don't like cleaning out the pans used with paint rollers, cover the inside of the pan with aluminum foil before you pour in the paint. When you have finished, the foil can be removed and tossed away and the pan will be nice and clean—ready for another color paint.

Plan the Colors, Then Go Ahead

Choose all the room colors at the same time—or all that are to be added to those which can't be changed. That is the best, single way to avoid color scheme problems. Color schemes go wrong—or are hardly schemes at all—when one color is decided on, then another, and then still another.

It's one-at-a-time choosing that brings on the almost insoluble problem of what color the last few pieces of furniture should be to go with everything else, or of what color to paint the walls.

Plan your color scheme as a whole and buy each new item to fit the clearly defined scheme. If several things are to be added at once, make sure all fit together before making any purchase.

It may be necessary to change some decisions for the sake of others, but this way the color scheme can be a success. It never can be when single items are bought in the hope that everything will turn out right.

Hiding Scratches

Small scratches in varnish can often be removed if you take a small artist paint brush and flow turpentine into the scratch. On shellac, use denatured alcohol in the same manner.

Elmira Escapee Is Given 3-6 Year Term

ELMIRA (AP)—An inmate of Elmira Reformatory, who was the object of a six-day manhunt last month after his escape, has been sentenced to serve three to six years in prison on the escape charge.

Richard M. Lowe, 26, of Syracuse was captured on a road near Williamsport, Pa., six days after he walked away from a work detail at the reformatory on Sept. 20.

Lowe had served 14 months of an unspecified term of up to five years for second-degree larceny. He was to have come before the Parole Board in two months.

He pleaded guilty Oct. 10 to the indictment charging escape and was sentenced to Attica Prison yesterday by Chemung County Judge Donald H. Monroe. Judge Monroe directed that the prison term begin after the reformatory term is completed.

Appeals to Hear Couple on Land Seizure Upstate

ALBANY (AP)—The Court of Appeals will hear the case of a husband and wife who contend that the State Power Authority illegally took their land for the St. Lawrence power project.

The state's highest court held Thursday that Mr. and Mrs. Daniel R. Cuglar of Massena could appeal as a matter of right. The court denied a motion for permission to appeal "upon the ground that an appeal lies as of right."

The court said the request for permission to appeal was not necessary. Four other cases are covered by the same ruling.

The Associated Press reported erroneously yesterday that the court had refused to hear the appeal.

The Cuglars claim that the seizure was illegal because their property is not essential for the power project. They say it is to be used for parks and other facilities.

2 Are Indicted In Theft of Gems

SYRACUSE (AP)—Two men were under indictment today on charges involving the theft of gems valued at $100,000 wholesale.

Nicholas Christopher, 23, of the Bronx, and Harry Abrams, 42, of Miami Beach, Fla., were indicted yesterday on charges of theft, possession and concealment of goods in interstate shipment.

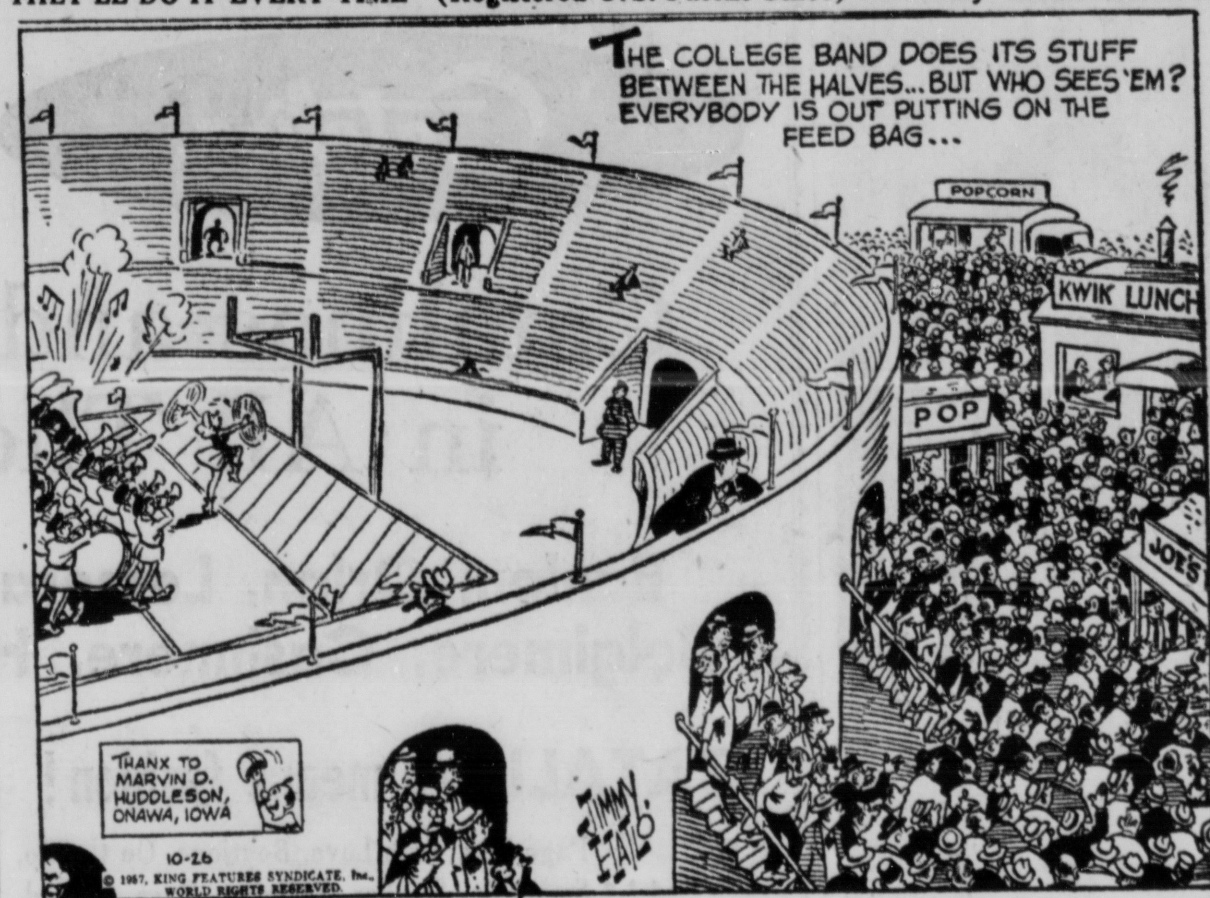

Police say the men took a case containing the gems from the baggage section of the Syracuse airport. The case was the property of Harold G. Phillips, a salesman for the Eichberg Jewelry Co. of New York City, police said.

Abrams and Christopher were free in $25,000 bail each.

'Moon' May Help To Unify Free World: Strauss

SCHENECTADY (AP)—Sputnik probably will result in unifying the scientific efforts of the free world, the chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission says.

This may be "one effect unlooked for" by the sponsors of the Russian earth satellite, Lewis J. Strauss said last night at an "Education and Atom" exposition at Union College.

Rep. W. Sterling Cole (R-NY), director general of the new International Atomic Energy Agency, cut a ribbon to open the exposition.

Union conferred honorary doctor of science degrees on both men.

Strauss said the atom-for-peace agency that Cole heads offered a means for bringing about world disarmament.

He pointed out that the Russian earth satellite was launched while the 62-nation agency was meeting in Vienna earlier this month.

"Only time will tell which of the two events was the more important," he said.

Woman Is Indicted In Fatal Burning Of Son's Wife

LITTLE VALLEY (AP)—Mrs. Fleeta Jimerson, 52, has been indicted on a charge of second-degree manslaughter in the fatal burning of her daughter-in-law, Oct. 9.

The victim was Mrs. Spencer Jimerson, 31, a resident of the Allegheny Indian Reservation near Salamanca.

Police said she died of burns received Sept. 22 when Fleeta Jimerson threw a jug of gasoline through her kitchen window onto a stove.

They said the two women had quarreled over discipline of the victim's children.

The indictment was returned yesterday by a Cattaraugus County grand jury. Fleeta Jimerson was scheduled to be arraigned on the charge Monday.

May Use Inactive Bases As Summer Camps

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Democratic governors of New York and Pennsylvania will meet in the Pentagon next Wednesday to discuss the use of inactive military bases as summer camps for underprivileged boys as a means of preventing juvenile delinquency.

Sen. Irving M. Ives (R-NY) said yesterday that the governors—Averell Harriman and George M. Leader—would sit in on the conference with Secretary of Defense McElroy and other officials.

One of the purposes of the plan, he said, was to combat juvenile delinquency.

Ives said Harriman and Leader had proposed a pilot project for New York and Pennsylvania using Sampson Air Force Base near Geneva, N. Y.

BRIDGE Five Trumps Fail to Set

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Since becoming president of the American Contract Bridge League, J. G. Ripstra of Wichita has become quite conservative in his bidding on the theory that it is undignified for the president to be set.

His failure to bid seven with today's hand must be ascribed to this conservatism but with trumps breaking five-zero it took very good play to bring even the small slam home.

Rip won the opening spade lead with the king and played the ace of trumps. West showed out and Rip was mighty glad he had not bid seven. He studied the hand and noted that he could make the small slam if East could not trump in too soon on his high cards in the side suits.

Rip cashed his ace of spades and continued with three rounds of clubs. On the third club he got rid of his last spade.

The ace and queen of diamonds were taken next and dummy's last spade led and trumped.

East was now down to trumps but it did him no good. Rip led a diamond and ruffed with dummy's king. The last club was now played and East could ruff high or low but the best he could get would be one trump trick.

To forestall a lot of letters, I must point out that this hand will make seven no-trump provided the first heart trick is taken with dummy's king but that particular result does not detract anything from Rip's fine play of the hand at six hearts.

Wires Encircled Car

SCHROON LAKE (AP)—A man and his wife spent a harrowing half hour last night trapped in their automobile encircled by live 5,000-volt wires.

Joseph Mazur, 46, and his wife, Pauline, 40, of Schenectady, were driving along Route 9 when they ran into the tangled wires shortly after they had been knocked down when a truck hit a utility pole. It occurred about 15 miles north of this Adirondack Village.

Niagara Mohawk Power Corp. employees turned off the current and freed the car.

Power was cut off throughout the town of North Hudson for about two hours.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Notes and comment on the TV scene: The nice thing about being Groucho Marx is that you can say anything to anybody and get away with it. For instance, at a recent party he was introducing Guy Madison to people as "Wyatt Earp." Guy (Wild Bill Hickok) didn't seem to mind a bit.

The best prepared show of the TV season will be Mary Martin's "Annie Get Your Gun" on Thanksgiving Eve. It has run in legit form for a dozen weeks in San Francisco and Los Angeles. Only 16 minutes of the play will be dropped for the home screens, most of it in the secondary plot of the young couple's romance.

Rooney Job Praised
The fabulous horse-on-treadmill gallop by Mary will be on the show. She'll film it and the film will be used in case something goes wrong in the live version.

There's talk of a comedy series for Eddie Mayhoff after his stint on the Standard Oil spectacular, the hit of an otherwise lackluster show. Eddie did a brief series a few years ago but it got lost in the shuffle.

Folks are still talking about the amazing job Mickey Rooney did as Pinocchio. He actually was the puppet boy, with none of the Rooneyisms apparent. Rooney is riding high these days.

Things I could do without: Those vocal backgrounds for dramatic effect on filmed shows like "Wyatt Earp." It is an attempt of course, to avoid rendering unto Caesar (Petrillo), since singers don't require a cut of the profits as musicians do. But it sounds corny. . . . On the basis of his first show, look for Frank Sinatra to dominate Friday nights. Some of it was amateurish — those stage wails, offstage noises — but Frank kept things moving in amiable style and was in fine voice.

Ellsasser Concert Slated for Sunday

Announcement has been made of the program for the Richard Ellsasser organ concert, Sunday, 4 p. m., at Old Dutch Church, Wall and Main streets. Several numbers have been requested by those who heard the noted organist in his concert at the church last November.

The program will open with Psalm 119, Marcellus; Le Fils, D'Andrieu; Evocation a la Chapelle, Sixtine, Liszt; and Toccata in F, J. S. Bach.

This will be followed by Guilmant's First Sonata in D Minor Opus 42.

Following intermission, Ellsasser will play Rumba, Robert Elmore; "Soul of the Lake" from Seven Pastels, Karg-Elert; Marche Fantastique, Ellsasser; and Rondo in G, Bull.

Ellsasser will explain each number in his customary manner.

He is currently on tour in the eastern part of the United States. His local program is sponsored by the senior choir of the church and tickets may be obtained from any choir member or at the door.

Good Taste Today

By EMILY POST

Author of "Children Are People" and "Etiquette," etc.
A VERY NECESSARY
THANK-YOU NOTE

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me whether or not a thank-you note is necessary in this situation? This past week we were guests at an out-of-town wedding. The bride's family entertained us at dinner the evening before the wedding and paid for our lodging at the hotel where they made reservations for us. We are relatives of the groom and know the bride's family slightly. If a note is in order, will you give me a brief outline of what to say?

Answer: Very definitely you should write a thank-you note, such as: "Dear Mrs. Blank, Thank you more than we can say for your generous hospitality. The wedding was beautiful and we thoroughly enjoyed every moment of our stay. Very sincerely yours."

Answering the Telephone
Dear Mrs. Post: A girl friend of mine lives in an apartment with her parents and a brother. When her brother answers the telephone he always says, "Jones residence." My girl friend thinks this is perfectly good taste but I disagree. I know that it is proper in an office to answer a telephone with the name of the person speaking or the name of the company but isn't answering a home telephone with "Jones residence" a little pretentious?

Answer: "This is Mrs. Jones' house (or apartment)" would be in better taste than the rather pompous "Jones residence."

When the Waitress is a Friend
Dear Mrs. Post: We have a friend who is employed as a waitress in a very nice restaurant here in town. My husband and I go there often for meals and on occasion invite guests to go with us. Will you please tell me if it would be proper to introduce our guests to our friend (the waitress) when she comes to our table to wait on us?

Answer: Yes, it would be the friendly thing to do, unless you see that it embarrasses her to be introduced and that she prefers her anonymity.

How to have an attractive table for your next dinner party is one of the many things found in Mrs. Post's booklet No. 504, "Etiquette of Table Setting." Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. To obtain a copy, send 25 cents in coin to Dept. EP, c/o The Freeman, P.O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Jean Kelder, James Nerone Exchange Vows; Couple Plan to Make Home in Kingston

On Sunday, Oct. 20, at the Marletown Reformed Church, Miss Jean Kelder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Robert Kelder of Stone Ridge, exchanged marriage vows with James D. Nerone, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Nerone of 92 Abrynn Street.

The Rev. Roy Adleberg was the officiating clergyman for the double ring ceremony.

Mrs. Ernest Schwarz was at the organ. Soloist was Frank Parslow Jr.

Vases of white mums and oak leaves decorated the church for the occasion.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of peau de soie fashioned with a fitted bodice, long tapered sleeves and a scoop neckline. The bodice featured an all-over embroidery of velvet flowers outlined with seed pearls. The full floor length skirt terminated in a circular court length train. A bridal cap edged in seed pearls and iridescent sequins secured the hand rolled French illusion veil. She carried a white Bible with a white orchid and streamers.

Mrs. Robert H. Kelder of Woodstock, was the matron of honor. She wore a gown of romance blue nylon chiffon styled with a shirred and molded bodice, short sleeves and scoop neckline. The full skirt was mezzanine length and the bodice was banded with matching velvet ribbon which also formed a back bow with streamers. She also wore a matching crown of seed pearls and forget-me-nots. Mrs. Kelder carried a cascade of pink carnations.

Best man was Robert Hart of Kingston. Ushers included S. Robert Kelder Jr., brother of the bride and George Dahl of Eddyville. Junior usher was Myron Parslow, cousin of the bridegroom. Stephen Wolff served as child ringbearer.

A reception for approximately 125 guests was held at The Alpine.

The bride was graduated from Kingston High School and is employed by IBM as a secretary. Her husband, also a Kingston High School graduate, attended The Citadel, Military College. He is a field engineering student at IBM.

For a wedding trip to Pennsylvania, the bride chose a traveling ensemble consisting of a black and white plaid wool sheath with black accessories.

The couple plan to make their home at 88 Murray Street.

Baxendale - Kappel Nuptials Announced; Ceremony Held at St. Peter's in Rosendale

Miss Alice Veronica Baxendale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Baxendale of Blackpool, England, now residing with her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. A. Barratt of Bloomington, became the bride of Robert John Kappel, resident of Bloomington.

The ceremony was held on Saturday, Oct. 19, at St. Peter's Church in Rosendale.

For her wedding, the bride wore a silk gown styled with a panel of Chantilly lace down the front of the skirt. The neckline was of lace accented with sequins. Her matching crown, studded with seed pearls and sequins, held a fingertip veil of French illusion. She carried a prayer book with a white orchid and streamers of white roses.

Norma Barratt, niece of the bride, was the honor attendant.

CATALINAS and FRENCH KNITS priced from 3.98 to 24.98

Do Y-O-U Know What The World's Most Beautiful Sweaters Are Made Of?

What Is ORLON?

Catalina uses only the super quality of this most wanted miracle yarn. Made of coal, limestone, petroleum, water, air and natural gases. More porous than nylon, has warmer feel in the hand. Luxurious texture of cashmere.

What Is BANLON?

It's the newest and probably the finest miracle yarn. Washing's easy, blocking's unnecessary! Fuzzing's no problem. Good looks are lasting! French knit makes it beautiful and the colors are stunningly new!

What Is BELGIMERE?

It's baby Merino lamb's wool, the softest and silkiest of all wools. Grown in Australia, spun and dyed with old world craftsmanship in Belgium. Has cashmere-like finish, luxurious to the touch. They're beautiful!

What Is WOOL ZEPHYR?

It's the softest quality wool of the sheep because it's the long staple, extra soft! The finest quality zephyr comes from Australia because of the ideal climatic conditions. Very soft feel to the hand. Come see them.

What Is LAMORA?

Catalina's own blend of 80% finest Australian zephyr wool and 20% imported wool from the Angora goat. These sweaters are knitted on fine gauge machines and have the softest downy texture. See these beauties!

What Is JACQUARD?

A jacquard is a knitted-in pattern usually in contrast color. Jacquard machines are not plentiful and Catalina's are second to none in the world. Come see them. Polka dots, tyrolean and flower designs.

What Is FUR BLEND?

It's Catalina's super-soft blend of 75% imported lamb's wool, 15% fur and 10% nylon. Knitted on fine gauge machines and have the softest downy texture.

What Is CASHMERE?

The aristocrat of yarns! Derived from the soft, downy hair next to the skin of goats found in the Himalayan Mountains. Plucked out by hand. Full fashioned and moth-proofed.

True Size in CATALINA

They conform perfectly with every measurement of the U. S. government. In most cases the size worn in a blouse determines the correct sweater size. Catalina's reputation comes from 40 years in making sweaters!

Fashion in NECKLINES

Catalina has 14 different types of necklines! Will they stretch out of shape? NO—the round necklines are shaped with a folded ribbon band inlaid with lastex to prevent stretching. Catalina means fashion quality!

Are They WASHABLE?

Most Catalina sweaters are washable if extreme care is used. The label in the sweater tells you when the sweater must be dry cleaned only. Prolong the life of your Catalina! Use luke warm water, never hot water.

Small Details Are Important

All Catalina knit fabrics are pre-washed before cutting! Ribbon facings and buttons on cardigans are perfectly matched to color of sweater. Vat-dyed thread is used for sewing the sweater. Inside of sweaters are cleanly finished, all seams are covered in matching thread.

COMING BACK BY POPULAR DEMAND—Xavier Cugat and his world famous orchestra will return to Kingston for this year's annual stage show and ball sponsored by Congregation Ahavath Israel at municipal auditorium on Wednesday, Thanksgiving Eve, Nov. 27. The dynamic maestro, famous for his rumbas, played to a capacity audience in Kingston in November 1951 and another sellout crowd is expected next month.

Xavier Cugat Band to Highlight Annual Ahavath Israel Show and Ball Nov. 27

The announcement today that Xavier Cugat and his famous orchestra is coming back to Kingston on Wednesday night, Thanksgiving Eve, Nov. 27, for the annual ball and stage show sponsored by Congregation Ahavath Israel comes as a long-awaited report to many who remember his first appearance in the city.

It was back on Thanksgiving Eve, 1951, that the dynamic Cuban music maestro brought his celebrated aggregation to municipal auditorium and many patrons of the Ahavath Israel ball agreed then that the Cugat band "was a show in itself."

Now, through the courtesy of the Music Corporation of America, Cugat and his band will make their second showing before a local audience and indications are that tickets for this gala holiday eve program will be selling at a brisk pace.

Herman G. Rafalowsky, honorary chairman of this year's ball who is doubling with Benjamin Schechter, ball chairman, as co-chairman of the entertainment committee, was all smiles when he told a Freeman representative today that Cugat was coming back.

"We've been trying to bring Cugat back every year since that memorable night in 1951," Mr. Rafalowsky said, "and now we've contracted him through MGA for our ball this year. We're all mighty happy about it."

Both Mr. Rafalowsky and Mr. Schechter pointed to the expected rush for tickets to this year's show and advised that early accommodations for reserve seats be made through Murray Greene who is again handling this important detail for the Ahavath committee.

Mr. Rafalowsky, who has booked many stage, screen, radio and television personalities down through the years, came back from New York this week with information that on Cugat's recent opening at the Roseland in New York he broke all attendance records.

"He's always been a popular entertainer," the Broadway clothier said and added "his recent appearances on TV also have helped." Last year Cugat and his beautiful bride, Abbe Lane, were starred in a twice-weekly series over WRCA-TV.

MCA spokesmen were hopeful this week that Miss Lane would be able to make an appearance in Kingston with her famous husband. Right now she is scheduled to appear in a Broadway stage show and if commitments in New York do not interfere the colorful songstress will share the auditorium stage with Cugat on Nov. 27.

It has been Cugat's showmanship and versatility which has enabled the rumba king to smash records at the Roseland, where he opened recently; the Waldorf-Astoria in New York, Copacabana, the Statler Hotel in Detroit, the Palmer House in Chicago, the Paramount Theatre in New York and many other leading night spots and theatres throughout the country.

His band is a curious mixture of Cuban gourd shaking, Latin American romance and modern American dynamics. He entwines these factors into a fast moving musical show with as solid as beat as will be found in any fine band.

While in the center of the swirl of rumba dancers, maracas shakers and violin players, Cugat is a hub around whom revolves all the fun and merriment of a fiesta.

Music such as "Begin the Beguine" written for Cugat by Cole Porter and Cugat's own "Take It Easy" and his haunting theme "The Shawl," show his tempo and style. The Cugat organization is always working in a new interpretation of musical ideas that bring a fresh appeal.

His appearance here will express the latest popular hits blended into the inimitable Cugat tempo and style that has broken attendance records in the nation's top show places from coast to coast.

Speaker Scheduled For Saugerties Area Shopper's Luncheon

Mrs. Mildred Meskil, senior business consultant of the State Department of Commerce will address the Saugerties shopping survey luncheon of Saugerties Area Chamber of Commerce Monday at 1:30 p. m. in the Green Room of the Exchange Hotel, Saugerties.

Mrs. Meskil, affiliated with the woman's program of the department and assistant to Mrs. Kathryn V. Fitzgerald, deputy commissioner is replacing her as guest speaker. Mrs. Fitzgerald is unable to attend.

Nearly 35 representatives of Saugerties area women's organizations will attend the luncheon as guests of the Chamber to hear about the proposed shopping survey for Saugerties.

Robert Barron, business consultant of the department will outline the program and how the Saugerties women's clubs can assist in the project to improve the Saugerties shopping district.

A native of Albany, Mrs. Meskil after a brief teaching career, entered service as a government analyst. Later she transferred to the Bureau of Food Control as a food inspector — the only woman in this field.

When the woman's program began she became a food specialist in the Department of Commerce.

The luncheon directed by John G. Offermann and Joseph Bosco, co-chairmen of the Chamber, will serve to obtain customer opinions on ways to make Saugerties a better place to shop and live.

According to the program, representatives attending will distribute nearly 2,000 questionnaires to members of their clubs at the next regular meeting. The completed questionnaires will be returned to the Saugerties Chamber of Commerce and forwarded to the State Department of Commerce to be tabulated and analyzed.

Home-Seekers Is Represented at District Meeting

The semi-annual meeting of the Southeastern New York League of Savings and Loan Associations was held Thursday at the Dutchess Manor at Beacon, with representatives of Savings Associations throughout the Southeastern section of New York State in attendance.

Home-Seekers Savings and Loan Association of Kingston was represented at the meeting by John B. Sterley, president; Dewesse W. DeWitt, executive vice president; Raymond Howe, secretary; William F. Paulus, auditor; Ralph M. Cooper, also the Mmes. Virginia Cave, Helen E. Schoonmaker, Jessie P. Allan, Hilda D. Johnson, Muriel Finger and Marie A. Pilz.

The afternoon session of the meeting was devoted to an informative panel program moderated by Dewesse W. DeWitt of Home-Seekers Savings. Members of the panel, who are leaders in the advertising, public relations and savings and loan field, discussed and stressed the value to each Savings and Loan Association of effective advertising and the promotion of better public relations. Each member of the panel showed the effectiveness of their particular program in acquainting more and more people each year with the many services offered by local Savings and Loan Associations.

The evening part of the session was highlighted by an address by Robert Leo Shepard of New York City who is one of the leading speech and elocution instructors in this part of the country. His excellent diction has been heard by millions of people as Shepard is in charge of the public address system at Yankee Stadium. In his talk Shepard emphasized the theory that all the individuals and each department must work and think together as one unit to achieve success.

Although Shepard patterned his remarks to the team work required for the successful operation of a Savings and Loan Association he said that the same team work was essential for the successful operation of any business or organization.

Will Discuss Completion Of Quebec-N.Y. Canal

SOREL, Que. (P)—Canadian and American officials meet here tomorrow to discuss the possibility of completing a 12-foot-deep canal from Sorrel to New York City.

They are scheduled to include Govs. Averell Harriman of New York and Joseph B. Johnson of Vermont and Solicitor-General Leon Balcer, representing Canada.

Sorel, a ship-building center on the St. Lawrence River, is 40 miles northeast of Montreal.

Half of the present canal — in the United States — is of 12-foot depth. The Quebec portion is about 6½ feet deep and can accommodate only barges of less than 250 tons.

The proposed canal would run through the Richelieu, Lake Champlain, and the Hudson River.

Knights Re-elect Supreme Officer

ST. LOUIS (P)—Luke E. Hart was re-elected supreme knight of the Knights of Columbus yesterday by the organization's board of directors.

Hart, a resident of St. Louis and New Haven, Conn., has been head of the million-member Catholic laymen's organization since 1953. The organization was founded in 1882.

The board also re-elected all other supreme officers at its quarterly meeting. They include Joseph F. Lamb of New York City, secretary.

High School Thrashes Middletown, 32-0, for No. 14

Engle and Armstrong Each Get 2 Touchdowns

By SAM ANZALONE
Freeman Sports Staff

History repeated itself almost to the same day last night at frigid Dietz Stadium as Kingston High continued rolling on its merry way toward another undefeated football season.

Just a year ago the Maroon raked Middletown High over the coals, 32-0. And last evening, to the delight of some 1,500 frozen but partisan die-hards, the locals inflicted the same kind of punishment on the hapless Middies by the exact count to extend their victorious string to 14 games.

The margin most assuredly would have been much greater but for Coach Bill Burke who opened wide the gates of mercy. The Maroon mentor had second stringers operating as early as midway through the third period. By the time it was over, Burke had the most obscure reserve in there, even a few who weren't listed on the program.

There were heroes aplenty. To pick out one would be foolhardy. It was, perhaps, the top group effort of any of the four previous KHS successes.

The victory was an important one. It boosted Kingston's DUSO League record to 3-0 and inched the defending champions a stride closer to wrapping up a second straight title. Their final DUSO assignment is, of course, with Newburgh Free Academy on Thanksgiving Day morning.

2 TDs Each
Hobie Armstrong and Marv Engle each crossed over the goal line twice to lead the touchdown-makers. Bob Beadle registered the fifth and last TD. Hobie kicked two extra points in five attempts to round out the scoring.

Hobie racked up KHS's first and fourth scores to hike his touchdown scoreboard to 12. With the two extra points, the exciting junior has now personally chalked up 80 points, including 53 against DUSO rivals.

His first touchdown came with the game less than two minutes old and covered 30 yards. It was a dilly of a run. One Middie defender had him by one leg as he circled left and but Hobie squirmed away, cut back toward the middle and threaded his way to paydirt. The TD capped a quick 52 yard move in just five plays. Hobie, Tony Uhl and John Pans rushed the ball into scoring territory.

Elusafinim-ed hre-yadrP? The local lowered the boom once again moments later. It all started when end Bob Strong pounced on Don Bergamo's fumble on the MHS 25 following the touchdown kickoff.

KHS Goes to Air
This time, KHS unfurled its aerial weapons just to show the visitors that it isn't just an over-land machine. The ball was resting on the 11 with fourth down when quarterback Jerry McDonough, behind brilliant protection, spotted big Engle in the end zone and hit him with a scoring pitch. Engle made a fine catch all alone near the end zone back line. Armstrong, whose first extra point try was wide, split the uprights for a 13-0 lead.

The same passing combination clicked midway through the 19-0 period to give KHS a 19-0 lead which it held at intermission. Kingston started a drive from its 33 and it reached the enemy's 27 in 8 plays when it sputtered momentarily.

On third down, McDonough dropped back and pegged a beautiful aerial to Engle who took a couple of steps and was over. In all, the perfectly executed play covered 31 yards.

The same two triggered that scoring offensive with a 17-yard pass. Then they let Uhl take charge and he ripped out 17 yards in 5 rushes to get into striking distance.

Uhl Gives Way
Uhl, who still isn't completely over the effects of the flu, gave way to Tom Cragan in the second half. Cragan took full advantage of the opportunity to sparkplug KHS's fourth TD thrust.

But before he could strut his stuff, McDonough, who played a real top-notch game, swiped a Bergamo pass on the fourth play of the second half and rumbled to the Middletown 34 to put his team in business.

Cragan belted out 6 and Armstrong 3. Parete got a first down on the 21 and McDonough carried to the 15. Cragan then whirled to the 5 and got to the 3 for another first down. McDonough was stopped for no gain, but he called Armstrong's

Miller Pacer Upset Victor In Messenger

WESTBURY (AP)—A nose bleed cost Torpid—regarded in harness racing circles as the most sensational 3-year-old pacer since Adios Harry—his chance to win the $100,084 Messenger Stake at Roosevelt Raceway last night.

Victory in this world's richest pacing race went instead to Meadow Lands, owned by Del Miller and Hugh Grant of Bradford, Pa. and driven by Miller.

Torpid, a bay son of Knight Dream-Torresdale owned by Max Hochberg of Irvington, N. J. earlier this year had won the Cane Pace at Yonkers and the Little Brown Jug at Delaware, Ohio. Winner in 36 of his previous 40 starts, he was considered a shoo-in to take the Messenger and sweep pacing's triple crown.

Morris Eden Scores
But it was apparent something was wrong when Morris Eden, driven by Stanley Dancer, shot second qualifying heat and went on to win by a length. The field of 14 had been split into two heats with the first four in each competing for the big money in a third and final mile dash.

Within minutes it was announced that Torpid had been scratched from the final dash because of bleeding nostrils. "I knew he wasn't himself at the head of the stretch," explained driver Johnny Simpson. "That's where I wanted to make my brush (maximum speed) and I couldn't."

Lucky Says Dancer
"I was very lucky," commented Dancer. "Torpid definitely wasn't himself." Simpson tried hard to win the big money with Nyland Hanover, but his stretch bid failed to catch Meadow Lands by three quarters of a length.

Meadow Lands paced the final mile in 2:05 and paid $9,530 and $2,400 across the board in the muds. Nyland Hanover returned $11.30 and $3. Adios Express, flown here from the Pacific Coast for the race, paid a minimum of $2.10 to show.

Notre Dame Leads Boys Club League
Notre Dame whipped the Rams, 36-21, yesterday to take over first place in the Boys Club touch football league.

Alan Deyo went on a scoring rampage, collecting four touchdowns to pace the Irish. Tom Goloski and Steve Allen each netted one.

Ron Weeks scored twice for the Rams and Fred Schiskie once.

Japan Duo Leads Snead, Demaret By Nine Strokes
TOKYO (AP)—Japan's Torakichi Nakamura and Koichi Ono, using their putters like wands of magic, shot into an almost insurmountable nine stroke lead over the favored Americans today with only one round to play in the international Canada Cup golf tournament.

It appeared it would take a miracle for Sam Snead and Jimmy Demaret, the two tourney-toughened veterans of the U. S. circuit, to overtake the inspired pros of the host nation who show no signs of slackening their sub-par sweep. Playing in occasional rain and stiff winds, Nakamura, the businesslike little Japanese open champion, added a five-under-par 67 to a previous brace of 68s for a 54 hole score of 203, which put him well in the lead for the individual championship.

His poker-faced partner, Ono, added a 68 to give the Japanese team an aggregate score of 414, nine strokes better than the Americans.

Pro Football Roundup

Giants Oppose Skins Sunday

The Associated Press

The first-place tie existing in both conferences of the National Football League may be broken tomorrow when all 12 teams roar into the fifth week of competition. But don't bet on it.

None of the five deadlocked teams oppose each other. The New York Giants and Cleveland Browns, tied for the top of the Eastern Conference with identical 3-1 records, face Washington and the Chicago Cardinals, respectively. The Giants will be at home while the Browns will be on the road.

San Francisco, Detroit and Baltimore, in a three-way tie for the Western Conference lead, also have won three while losing one. The Forty-Niners will be host to the Chicago Bears, the Lions will meet the Rams in Los Angeles and the Colts play the Green Bay Packers at home.

Giants Favored

The Giants, who crushed the Pittsburgh Steelers 35-0 last Sunday, run an 11-point favorite to repeat over the Redskins, whom they defeated 24-20 in Washington two weeks ago. The Giants will be handicapped by the absence of three injured regulars, tackles Dick Yelvington and Jack Stroud and quarterback Don Heinrich, but they still figure to beat the defense-weak Redskins by a touchdown or two.

Cleveland, knocked out of the unbeaten ranks by the previously winless Philadelphia Eagles, rate a 2½-point choice over the improved Cardinals. Fired up by their 44-14 rout of the Redskins last week, the Cardinals, sparked by Ollie Matson and Lamar McHan, are primed to pull an upset.

Cleveland lacks the offense of the Cards who have been able to win only twice in 14 meetings with the Browns.

Nats Annex NBA Opener

By The Associated Press
Last year, the Syracuse Nationals lost eight of their first 11 games in the National Basketball Assn., and the critics shook their heads wisely and allowed as how this club had nothing.

But they wound up second at the end. This year, even before the season started, most experts wrote off the Nats, although rival NBA coaches warned that they would be tough.

And tough they are going to be if their opener last night is any indication. With John Kerr hitting for 22 points and Larry Costello chipping in with 20 more, the Nats licked the Philadelphia Warriors, 103-85. It also was Philadelphia's first game.

Cincinnati and Minneapolis, the only two teams that haven't seen action, open tonight. Cincinnati entertains Syracuse, Minneapolis is at St. Louis. In two other games Boston is at New York and Philadelphia at Detroit.

New PCL Setup In High Gear

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Realignment planning for the Pacific Coast League was narrowing today.

Most of it still concerned hopes and prospects of cities which evidenced interest in becoming members of the loop whose membership was cut three when the Giants took San Francisco and the Dodgers moved to Los Angeles.

Franchises for those two cities plus Hollywood must be shifted if the PCL is to survive as a triple-A class minor.

Phoenix, Salt Lake City, Spokane, Denver and Long Beach drew mention. The PCL holds its annual meeting in Sacramento on Friday.

Remaining members are Seattle, Portland, Vancouver, San Diego and Sacramento.

Batavia Downs Meet Extended

NEW YORK (AP)—The harness racing season at Batavia Downs will run to Nov. 16.

George P. Monaghan, state harness racing commissioner, yesterday granted an extension of the season on a petition by the Downs management.

The Batavia club house and stands have been winterized with the installation of a $45,000 heating plant, Monaghan said.

James E. Martin, the distinguished, greying supervisor of the 12th Ward, will view the ensuing diatribe with great dismay.

The former southpaw pitching star, who became addicted to convertibles, never quite cottoned to golf and the mere sight of a golf item after the World Series causes him great distress. He has chided us about the preponderance of golf stuff many times in the past.

However, since golf achieved major status as a participant sport in the area it's difficult to write columns without often alluding to a fairway item—even after the World Series. Thus, what appears superfluous to James may be revealing to others, to wit: "I never shanked a shot in my life. I wouldn't know what it was"—author, Doug Ford.

Golf courses are mushrooming in Sullivan county. The Concord has 27 holes and plans another nine for two full courses. Grossinger's has an 18-hole and Kutscher's is building now for play next spring. There are 9-holes at The Laurels, Pines, Nevele, Flagler and one under construction at the Evans, plus the Sullivan County Country Club.

Bob Stapleton and the Shawangunk Country Club crew (Ellenville) have constructed three new alternate tees and trapped the first and eighth greens. Under present circumstances, the "back nine" at Shawangunk will present a real challenge to Father Herdegen golfers next June.

There are no rigged shots in ABC-TV's "All Star Golf" series. Since the tournaments are official, it is up to the camera to capture the action as it happens. This is the reason for using six cameras which expose about 75,000 feet of film each match—enough for eight or 10 hours of showing. From this film the final footage is selected for the TV series which shows virtually every shot the golfers take.

Having missed a hole-in-one by 24 inches on a 159-yard hole, with it a $10,000 prize, veteran Gene Sarazen, the Squire of Germantown, mused, "I figure that miss at about $400 an inch."

Woodstock Country Club is in the process of extensive alterations and improvements on the village links. The first tee is being graded and improved; alternate tees on the second, third holes are under construction. The fifth tee is being elevated. Re-sodding of the sixth tee is under way. There will be an alternate tee on the 7th hole. The eighth tee is being elevated, graded and improved.

Dr. George C. Rifenbary did an excellent job as president of the Wiltwyck Country Club. His successor, Dr. Fred Holcomb Jr. is well qualified to carry on. These two will rank among the pioneers who guided Wiltwyck through its early days. We hope their contributions are not too quickly forgotten.

The 160 new golf courses and additions opened for play in 1957 top all previous 12 month periods since World War II according to the National Golf Foundation. Foundation president, Joe Graffis Sr., pointed out that these new courses and additions added 1,843 holes of golf to those already in play.

Graffis added that the 289 golf courses and additions reported under construction in 1957 underline the growing public confidence in the future of golf as an integral part of American life and pointed to the 758 courses in the planning stage as further proof of increasing interest in golf.

Today, fewer golf courses are falling by the wayside due to the American public's increasing awareness of the need for recreation facilities in the modern, young community, of golf's appeal to all age groups of both sexes, and golf course's proven ability to pay its own way without eating into already strained local tax structures.

We may yet convert the distinguished supervisor.

Golden Gloves Tournament Scheduled at Poughkeepsie

Co-sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Police Athletic League, a Golden Gloves boxing tournament will be conducted in Poughkeepsie in February.

Contracts for the local tournament have been signed at the office of the N. Y. Daily News Welfare Association, which conducts the Eastern division finals. The local event has been sanctioned by the Metropolitan Association of the A.A.U.

Gordon Kruger, member of the Poughkeepsie Junior Chamber of Commerce and tournament chairman, said that the Hudson Valley Region. He said that fighters from the Hudson Valley are eligible to participate in the regional eliminations.

Boys 16 years of age and over are eligible. Class championships to be decided are in the following weight groups:

112, 118, 126, 135, 147, 160, 175 and heavyweight. The eight class winners in the regional tournament will be eligible to compete in the Eastern division finals to take place March 4, 5, 6 in New York City.

The world champion New York football Giants tackle the Washington Redskins at Yankee Stadium Sunday. Kickoff time is 2:05 p. m.

The game will be telecast over the Giants' network, with a blackout in the metropolitan district. The Giants will place more than 30,000 seats on sale at the Stadium at 11 a. m. Among the tickets on sale are 11,000 bleacher seats at $2, many of them on the 40 and 50 yard lines.

Miami Pounds Kansas Gridders

The Associated Press
The upset nonsense was stopped, but good, last night as Miami's Hurricanes pounded Kansas 48-6 in the opener of another weekend of college football.

It looked like the Jayhawks had their foot in the door, scoring in the first five minutes of play. But Miami slammed the door with a bang in a 21-point second quarter and breezed the rest of the way.

That left the job to Colorado, Northwestern, Pittsburgh, North Carolina State, Arkansas, Houston, Baylor, Illinois and Virginia if this is to prove another week of upsets.

Pratt Boice, R.V.O. DuBois Feted at 4-H Leaders Dinner

The long service of Pratt Boice of Lake Katrine and R. V. O. DuBois of New Paltz in 4-H Club work was recognized Thursday evening at a dinner meeting of the 4-H Club Local Leaders at the SRS Home in Cottekill, under sponsorship of the commercial bankers of Ulster County. It was the Key Bankers reply to 4-H Club work.

Edmund R. Bower, Ulster county 4-H Club agent, introduced Frank Kelder, chairman of the 4-H Club executive committee, who presented Ivan Warren, Key Banker of Walkkill. Other 4-H Club workers presented were Mrs. William Larsen, president of 4-H Club Local Leaders Association and Nathaniel Phillips, vice-president of the 4-H Club Local Leaders Association.

Receive Gifts

The presentation of a clock to Pratt Boice was made by Mr. Kelder as a token of appreciation for his many years of service as 4-H Club executive committee member and a similar presentation was made to R. V. O. DuBois as an executive committee member. Mr. DuBois was unable to be present due to illness.

In accepting the clock Mr. Boice expressed his appreciation and said if more adults would act as 4-H Club leaders, there would be less juvenile delinquency. He urged to get the youth of today interested in 4-H Club work and in doing worthwhile 4-H Club projects.

Given Introductions

Fred DuBois, supervisor of the town of New Paltz was introduced by Chairman Kelder. Mr. DuBois said he had started in 4-H Club work nearly 28 years ago and what he had gained in 4-H membership has reflected on his whole life.

Mrs. Frank Ennist, a 4-H Club leader for 25 years was introduced as was John Bub, who has spent many hours helping at the 4-H Camp.

John Gaffney, minority leader of the board of supervisors and George Mollenhauer, secretary-treasurer of the 4-H Club Leaders Association and supervisor of the Town of Rosendale was also introduced and said he has always been interested in 4-H work. Members of the executive committee were also presented as were former club members Richard Boice of Lake Katrine, Eleanor Morehouse of Lake Katrine, Ira N. Saxe of West Hurley and Mrs. Albert Milliken, Miss Anna Devine and Margaret Gippert who served as secretary of the 4-H Club for 27 years. Frank Coddington, coach of the 4-H Dairy team was unable to be present due to illness.

Express Appreciation

Appreciation to the commercial banks of Ulster County, the board of supervisors, Local Leaders, newspapers, radio and the many other persons who are helping the 4-H Club program was expressed by Chairman Frank Kelder, who said the leaders only reward is seeing youngsters doing well and if it were not for 4-H Club leaders many young people would not have 4-H Club work. Work of the 4-H Clubs is continually growing and local leaders are giving much of their time to the work.

C. C. DuMond, president of the Ulster County Extension Service Association and president of the Ulster County Agricultural Society, thanked the Bankers Association, the New York Central Railroad for the 5, 10, 15, 25 year pins which were awarded to the local leaders. DuMond said the 4-H leader is an adviser to members in the club and the only reward is seeing the progress of the members and watching them grow to be substantial members of a community.

After awarding pins and certificates to Local Leaders the meeting of the leaders was held and Charles Devoe of Plattkill was elected president; Mrs. Floyd Countryman of Accord, vice president; Mrs. C. C. DuMond Jr., Ulster Park, secretary-treasurer.

Leadership Awards

Leadership awards were made to the following for their years of service, years which totaled up to 436 years of community service:

First Year

Mrs. Paul Arnold, Forest Glen; Mrs. Vera Atkins, Tuthilltown;

Ulster Hose Sets Halloween Party, Dance Oct. 31

A Halloween party and dance — one of many community events sponsored by Ulster Hose Co. No. 5, town of Ulster—will be held at 7:15 p. m. Thursday, Oct. 31, at the Chambers School.

Chairman Angelo Altomari and his committee report all arrangements completed for the affair which is for residents of the Ulster Hose Fire District and the Lake Katrine Fire Protection District.

Johnny Knapp and his orchestra will furnish the music for dancing which begins at 8 p. m., continuing until 11. The musicians for the occasion are provided by a grant from the recording industry trust fund obtained through the cooperation of Local 215, American Federation of Musicians, Kingston.

The party is free to all. A number of prizes will be offered — Best hand drawing by pupils of the Lake Katrine and Chambers schools, best dressed, funniest costume, most original costume. Awards will be set up into age groups 1-8 and 9-15. Games are also planned.

Members of Ulster Hose Co. No. 5 Fire Police and members of the company will be on hand to supervise the program. A group of anonymous citizens of the district are paying for the school auditorium for the night.

The hand drawings may be handed to any member of the committee or fire company prior to Oct. 31. Refreshments will be served.

Testimonial Held For Joseph Craig

Joseph H. Craig, assistant treasurer of the Kingston Savings Bank, who is retiring from that position at the end of this month, was given a testimonial dinner Wednesday night at the Social Relief Society Hall in Cottekill by the bank's board of trustees.

In the absence of Holt N. Winfield, president, due to illness, Vice President Andrew J. Cook proposed a toast to the guest of honor.

Offered Witticisms

Lloyd R. LeFever, vice president and attorney for the bank, enlivened the occasion with his witticisms and recollections, among which was the fact that Craig had succeeded him as president of both Mendelssohn Club and Community Concert Association.

Trustee Ray Atkins recalled that he had known Craig probably longer than anyone else present, his recollections going back to the 20's when Craig was secretary-treasurer for James O. Winston, builder of the Ashokan Reservoir and other large structures.

A resident of this city since 1916, Craig was associated with the Kingston Savings Bank for nearly 20 years. On November 1, he will join his wife at their new home in Dunedin, Fla.

Craig was presented with fishing tackle and a set of Samsonite luggage after which dancing was enjoyed to the music of Carl Brachle and his orchestra.

Breach Widening In U. S.-Faubus Integration Rift

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — The split between Gov. Orval Faubus and the federal government over integration of Central High looked wider today, although conditions at the school itself were closer to normal.

Faubus yesterday: 1. Telegraphed President Eisenhower and Secretary of the Army Brucker a demand for immediate release of the 1,800 Arkansas National Guardsmen still on federal duty.

2. Announced he was seeking a Senate investigation of his accusation that the federal government was evading the Selective Service Act by keeping part of the state guard federalized.

The six Negro girls and three boys who attend Central High with about 2,000 white pupils were going to and from school without military protection.

Until the middle of this week, one or more soldiers had escorted the Negroes into the school building and escorted them out after classes.

Paratroopers of the 101st Airborne Division and some Arkansas guardsmen still are on guard outside Central High and six soldiers are stationed inside the building on school days.

The telegram Faubus sent Eisenhower and Brucker said selection of individual guardsmen to be retained on federal duty was "a clever scheme to circumvent the Selective Service Act and draft citizens of Arkansas into the federal army contrary to the plan approved by Congress for peace-time compulsory service."

Cites Death Toll In Fight Against Niagara Tunnels

WASHINGTON — Fifteen persons were killed in construction of a diversion tunnel at Niagara Falls, Ont., the New York State Power Authority says in presenting its case against tunnel-building at Niagara Falls, N. Y.

The Power Authority is contending before the Federal Power Commission that it should not be required to build similar diversion facilities for its proposed 600-million-dollar plant at Niagara Falls. The authority wants to employ covered conduits and an open canal to divert water into the plant. The city of Niagara Falls and neighboring communities want tunnels. Among other things, the communities say the conduit-canal system would be unsightly and hazardous.

Charles A. Pearce, director of the division of research and statistics of the New York State Department of Labor, said that, if the Canadian project's injury rate were applied to the proposed New York project—and if the tunnel diversion was ordered—a total of "16 and a fraction" fatalities might occur.

Actor Must Serve Time

LOS ANGELES — Actor Anthony Franciosa, husband of actress Shelley Winters, must serve 10 days in jail for an assault on a newspaper photographer.

The Appellate Department of Superior Court made the ruling yesterday.

Franciosa pleaded guilty last June 19 to a battery charge after an assault on Herald-Express photographer Bill Walker.

West Teachers Elect

BUFFALO — Donald H. Wing, superintendent of Salamanca schools, has been elected president of the Western Zone, New York State Teachers Assn.

Also elected yesterday at the organization's annual meeting were Edward F. Smith of Lackawanna, first vice president; and F. Robert Kenyon of Lockport, second vice president.

Approves Road Plan

BINGHAMTON — The Federal Bureau of Roads has approved plans for the Broome County segment of the Penn-Canada highway, the State Public Works Department announced yesterday.

The plans call for routing the north-south expressway through Binghamton, Johnson City and Vestal at a cost of 50 million dollars.

Killed by Shock

ROCHESTER — Robert B. Lerner, 34, was killed by electric shock yesterday while he was testing an electric regulator at the shop of the Rochester Gas & Electric Corp.
